

FEDERAL INQUIRY INTO VESTRIS DISASTER STARTED

FRANCIS GORMAN
DIED SUDDENLY
AT EARLY HOURTelegraph's Pressman is Victim of Neuralgia
of the Heart

Francis Gorman, one of the most popular and valued employees of The Evening Telegraph, where he had been employed for about eight years, nearly all of that time as pressman, died suddenly at his home, 324 E. Bradshaw street, at 3:15 o'clock this morning, the result of a sudden attack of neuralgia of the heart, which proved fatal before a hastily summoned physician could arrive. Funeral services will be held at the home at 9 o'clock Saturday morning, and at St. Patrick's Catholic Church at 9:30, with burial in Oakwood cemetery.

The fatal attack came to the young man without warning. He had been in his usual high and happy spirits yesterday and had, with the exception of being a little tired, been in apparently good health during the evening, staying up until nearly 11 o'clock listening to the radio programs. He awoke out of a sound sleep at a few minutes after 3 o'clock this morning and aroused his wife, complaining of intense pain in his head and asking her to open the window completely, in order that he might have less difficulty in breathing.

Inquest Held Today
Mrs. Gorman did as requested and then summoned her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Lindsey, with whom they made their home. They hurriedly summoned a physician and then hastened to the stricken man's bedside to find him passing away. Coroner Frank M. Banker of Franklin Grove conducted an inquest into the death at the Jones funeral home at 9:30 o'clock this morning, the jury returning a verdict that death was due to angina pectoris or neuralgia of the heart.

Francis' untimely and sudden passing has cast a pall of deep sorrow over The Telegraph force and over all circles in which he moved. He was an exceptionally happy, industrious and kindly boy. In all of his daily paths he radiated good nature and charity and good will toward all; he was ever willing to assist a fellow worker, always with a smile and a cheery word, and his jovial presence will be sorely missed by his associates in this office.

Francis Richard Gorman was born on the old Delp farm, two and one half miles north of Harmon, March 15, 1904, and his entire life was spent in this community. He received his education at St. Mary's parochial school in this city, and eight years ago he entered the employ of The Telegraph, faithfully performing all tasks given him during the succeeding years. On June 27, 1925 he was united in marriage to Miss Inez Lindsey; and she, together with his father, Michael Gorman; one sister, Miss Mary Gorman; and two brothers, Leo and Joseph, all of Dixon, survive to mourn him, and to them the sincerest condolence of all of Francis' many friends is extended. His mother, Mrs. Wallace Eatinger of Grand Detour, also survives.

Gives State 50 Acres of Land for New Park

Chicago, Nov. 15.—(AP)—Fifty acres of wooded land fronting on the Illinois River for a mile near Starved Rock was presented to the State of Illinois today as a new state park.

The donor was Richard T. Crane, Jr., wealthy Chicago manufacturer and philanthropist, whose family has owned the new park site for the last 15 years. The tract comprises a beautiful area of natural woods and ravines rising along the river in sheer rock nearly 100 feet high. It is similar in appearance to the Starved Rock region.

The property formerly was used as a recreational center for employees of the Crane company.

The deed to the land was presented formally to the state this afternoon, with Gov. Len Small accepting the property in behalf of Illinois.

Maximum Sentence is Given Atheists' Head

Little Rock, Ark., Nov. 15.—(AP)—The maximum sentence—a fine of $100 and ninety days on the county farm—was given Charles Smith, president of the American Association for the Advancement of Atheism, when he was convicted in Municipal Court today of a charge of violating an old law against blasphemy. Smith appealed and was released under $1,000 bond.

Smith said his conviction and appeal would give him a long sought opportunity to test out his anti-atheists law.

Smith was arrested yesterday as he attempted to re-open his atheist headquarters, which had been closed off by a court order. He was taken to the county jail and held in the city of Little Rock.

Wall Street

New York, Nov. 15—(AP)—The main price tendency was still upward at the opening of today's stock market. Radio opened 3 points higher, and American Smelting, Gotham Silk Hosiery and Gillette Safety Razor showed initial gains of 2 points. U. S.

Steel common, St. Louis Southwestern and Chrysler advanced a point or so. Northern Pacific and Westinghouse Electric touched new 1934 high levels.

Despite predictions of another huge increase in brokers' loans in the federal reserve statement to be issued after the close of the market, buying orders were again in large volume and fairly well distributed among a wide assortment of stocks, bonds, and public utilities. Public participation was again on a large scale.

One block of 32,000 shares of consolidated Gas changed hands at 88½, up 1½. U. S. Steel common was quickly marked up 2 points to a new high record at 170½. Standard Oil of New Jersey, Bethlehem Steel, United Fruit, May Department Stores, Dunhill International and National Bell-Hess also moved into new high ground.

Montgomery-Ward extended its gain to 4½ points, Radio to 4 and Johns. Manville, National Supply, Gold Dust and Shubert sold 2 or more points higher. Coty, Hudson, Calumet & Arizona, Union Pacific and National Cash Register were heavy in the early trading.

Foreign exchanges opened firm, with Sterling cables slightly higher at $4.84 1/16.

Following the early scramble in the opening market, prices churned around within narrow limits at midday, with the list, however, retaining much of its early strength despite abundant profit taking. Several popular favorites were pushed higher, particularly Johns. Manville and Westinghouse Electric which extended their gains well beyond 3 points. Bethlehem Steel rose to near 74, the best figure in six years. Call money renewed at 6 per cent.

SUMMONSES ARE ISSUED TODAY; HEARING BEGUN

blundering seamanship to plain murder, federal authorities today undertook an investigation of the wreck of the steamship Vestris.

Federal Attorney Charles H. Tuttle issued summonses to all available officers and members of the crew ordering them to appear at the federal building today. The surviving passengers were asked to give their versions of the disaster.

The charges piled up soon after the arrival here yesterday of the steamships American Shipper and Berlin bound from New York to South America, founded 240 miles off the Virginia Capes Monday. Early today the French tanker Myriam docked in Brooklyn with 57 survivors, some of whom supported the charges while others denied them or remained silent.

114 Presumably Dead
The tragedy in figures today stood at 214 rescued, 114 presumably dead. Twenty-two bodies had been recovered. The missing included 27 women and 13 children. All the children who were aboard perished, apparently. Ten women were saved. Besides those landed in New York nine survivors were aboard the battleship Wyoming, which was ordered to put into Hampton Roads, Va.

The cause of the sudden disaster to the supposedly seaworthy vessel remained in doubt.

Several theories were advanced by survivors. One was that the cargo hatches were not securely fastened, another that the bow was stove in by a mountainous wave, and another that a coal hole was left open due to rusted hinges.

David Cook, Vice President of Sanderson & Sons, Inc., agents for the owners, the Lamport & Holt Line, issued a statement expressing the belief that the cargo of crated automobiles in the hold had shifted, breaking open a bulkhead and starting a leak which permitted the seas to rush in.

Met Gigantic Seas
He said this possible shifting of the cargo could have been caused by the heavy seas the ship encountered. He reported the surviving officers as saying that never in their experience had they seen such gigantic seas.

The captain of the Vestris, William J. Carey, who might have explained it all, is dead. Several survivors told of seeing him at the rail of the ship as she took her fatal plunge and then without a lifebelt he either jumped or was swept into the water. "Goodbye all," were his parting words as he went overboard.

A charge that the ship was listing when she left port was made by Carlos Quiros, Chancellor of the Argentine Consulate, one of the rescued passengers, who said the list became more and more pronounced as she continued her voyage south.

Had Been Inspected
This, however, was denied by Mr. Cook, who pointed out that the ship had been inspected three days before she sailed by federal inspectors and pronounced "absolutely seaworthy."

Most of the passengers were bitter in their renunciations of the captains' actions and those of his crew. They charged the captain was overconfident, citing his failure to send out an SOS until Monday morning, hours after the dangerous condition had become apparent to those experienced in sea travel. There were charges that the crew stamped for the lifeboats, that the lifeboats themselves were unseaworthy and poorly handled; that partly filled boats were rowed cold bloodedly past persons fighting for their lives in the water.

Most heart-breaking of the stories of the sinking told was that of two lifeboat loads of women and children, which were smashed against the sides of the ship as they were being lowered. The tragedy was that those two boats, the first away by rule of the sea were the only ones lowered which did not get safely away from the ship.

Another boat sprang a leak and turned over but several of its occupants were able to save themselves by clinging to wreckage.

 Or ties it to a wet uncertain leaf

 That stalks in an hour or two is borne.

 Nor long can hold the burden of bright dew
 That shines while day is new
 On hedge and grass and corn...

Yet, it may be, this evening, when the shade
 Moves from the corner between wood and field,
 I shall find there revealed
 One web still not unmade.

One web whose dew, long shadow-guarded, lay
 To make new worlds out of the slanting light.
 And now on every strand they glimmer bright
 And all their day this golden end of day.

Dixon Ladies Are Guests Of Sterling D. A. R.

Sterling, Nov. 14—Rock River chapter, D. A. R. was entertained on Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. John W. Platt and her sister, Miss Louise Perry, at their home on West Third street. The Dixon chapter had been invited as guests of the afternoon and a large number responded. The usual opening exercises were conducted, with Miss Mollie Eastbrooks as pianist.

Several items of interest were presented during the business session, including an appropriation for the memorial to Mrs. Caroline Scott Harrison at her alma mater at Oxford, Ohio. Mrs. Harrison was the wife of the president and the first president of the national society, D. A. R.

In a vote taken on the most outstanding historical spot in Illinois, the tomb of Lincoln at Springfield was chosen. A series of articles on the historical spots in the different states will be published in the D. A. R. magazine.

Quotas were voted for the mountain schools under the care of the society, for the work at Ellis Island, the printing of the immigrant's manual, now published in fourteen languages and other approved lines of work.

Committee chairmen presented their subjects. Mrs. Bowman, in speaking of patriotic education, told of the little mountain school at Carcasone, asked the ladies to join her in sending a box of toys for children and gifts for old people who otherwise would not know Christmas.

Mrs. Chaplin stressed the need of national defense while working for peace and Mrs. Lorin Hall, who is becoming an outstanding member of the state committee on foreign relations, brought a message and appeal for her committee.

Mrs. H. N. Geyer, chairman of Correct Use of the Flag, read an interesting lesson on the subject and announced that the flags on the graves at the cemetery would be removed before Saturday night by the Boy Scouts who would reverently burn the tattered and faded emblems. She assured the members that hereafter this would be attended to not later than July fifteenth as had been agreed upon last spring.

Before taking up the program Mrs. Wenger, Regent, spoke words of greeting to the Dixon members and Mrs. Collins Dysart pleasantly responded for her chapter.

Attended League Sub-District Rally

Miss Alberta Peterson of Dixon was elected president; Miss Edna Bleamaster of Amboy, vice president; and Miss Marjorie Upton of Prophetstown, secretary and treasurer at the sub-district rally of the Epworth League of the Methodist church at Prophetstown, the first held since the conference, and which was attended by more than 225 young people representing the Leagues of the Joliet-Dixon district in this section. Many went from the Dixon church, many from the Rock Falls and Sterling, Amboy, Tampico, Lyndon and Prophetstown churches.

The rally was helpful and uplifting to the Christian young men and women, inspiring them to push forward and carry on more noble work. Rev. M. D. Bayly, pastor of the Fourth Street Methodist church, who is general superintendent of the Epworth Leagues in the entire district, very ably presided.

At 6:30 o'clock a fine banquet was served in the dining room by the ladies of the church. Afterwards several of the leagues contributed numbers to a delightful musical program which was enjoyed around the tables. Among the number were a piano solo by Miss Madeline Beswick of Morrison, a vocal solo by Miss Coralyne Waite of Prophetstown, and a vocal solo by Miss Elberta Peterson of Dixon. The girls' choir of the Prophetstown M. E. church rendered a pretty selection, and a group of girls from the Fourth Street Methodist church sang some league pep songs.

Rev. Bayly introduced the ministers in the district to the league members, before the address of the evening, delivered by Rev. A. Turley Stephenson, pastor of the Dixon Methodist church. The speaker encouraged the young people in his talk, pointing out some of the many things that the Epworth League has accomplished, interspersing his remarks with bits of wit and humor.

Many more peppy sub-district rallies are being planned by the leagues for the winter and spring months several of which will be held in Sterling and Rock Falls.

Peasant Class in America Predicted by College Teacher

Moline, Ill.—(AP)—A serious defect in America's educational systems, which, if allowed to continue, may develop a "peasant class" was outlined to the Illinois League of Women Voters in convention here by Prof. M. V. O'Shea of the University of Wisconsin.

The defect, he said, was in educational opportunities for rural children, adding that intelligence and educational tests have shown rural children are inferior to urban children.

"Rural children," said Prof. O'Shea, "have not had as good opportunities as urban children for an education adapted to modern needs. If this situation should continue a peasant class would be developed in this country."

"We have entered upon the tremendous task of preventing, if possible, such a national tragedy. In some states, rural education is being completely reconstructed so that rural children may enjoy as good educational facilities and training by as capable and enlightened teachers as urban children enjoy. In some states rural education is carried on largely in one room, ungraded schools, ill-equipped for modern education and not at all comparable with that which we find in urban schools in these same states. Rural teachers are inferior to urban teachers in qualities of leadership in the school room and in an understanding of the spirit or genius of American education. Such states cannot keep abreast of other states in which the rural schools are responding to the forces that are reconstructing our educational programs, in urban schools."

The new mode in education, said Prof. O'Shea, is the consideration of the needs of the individual, and the states that are leading in the abandonment of mere so-called cultural and disciplinary topics and the inclusion of material that can give an individual an understanding of a capacity to adjust himself to the world in which he lives today, are pushing ahead in material and social prosperity of the states that are still holding on to traditional education programs.

America, which has heretofore led in education, now appears to be allowing other nations, notably Germany, England and Japan, to forge ahead, the speaker declared. These countries and others, he said, have adopted certain of our educational procedures and "are putting them in to effect more completely, or at least, more rapidly, than we have done so far."

"The problem we are attacking now," he said, "is to so reconstruct our educational programs that we can equip individuals for vocations as well as for professions, not overlooking the fact that all people have certain needs in common, so that they must understand their physical, social and human environments and gain skill in adapting themselves thereto, in order that they acquire stability and comfort in life and reduce disharmony and distress. Some states are relatively backward in recognizing individual powers and limitations and adapting education work to individual needs. The states that are going forward most rapidly in this work are pushing ahead of the

BY FABYAN MATHEY

Spades are trumps and South has the lead. North and South must win five of the six tricks, against a perfect defense.

Lay out the cards on a table, as shown in the diagram. Study the situation and see if you can find the method of play that will give North and South five tricks. The solution is printed below.

THE SOLUTION

This problem contains no particular feature, but rather clever play is required to reach the solution.

South leads a diamond, North discards a club, and East wins the trick with an ace. East then leads a club which South wins, with the queen. Now South leads another diamond, which West covers with the jack and North trumps. North next leads a low trump, South winning the trick with the eight and then leading his last diamond, North discarding his last club. North now takes the final trick with the ace of trumps.

If West had refused to cover the second lead of diamonds, North would have then discarded his last club and North and South would have won the last three tricks with diamonds at the opening trick, the problem would have merely been somewhat simplified. The main object, of course, is to establish a diamond trick in the South hand. And this is insured by leading that suit at the opening.

backward states in material and social prosperity.

"The curricula of the elementary and secondary schools and the colleges are undergoing profound modification, the aim being to preserve in every study whatever promises to be functional in the daily life of the individual, and to eliminate everything that has been retained because of its value in developing mental power or in sharpening mental facilities, or in conferring culture upon the individual. We are agreed that the mind is developed best and culture is secure in the highest degree by acquiring knowledge that the individual can and will use in his daily adjustments, so that we are casting out of spelling, arithmetic, foreign languages, geography, grammar, history and all the rest, whatever topics have ceased to be usable in everyday life, and we are putting in their place new topics that pertain to the physical, social, economic, industrial, political and ethical situations of the present."

Daughter of Former Dixon Man Marries

(Special to the Telegraph)
 Jersey City, N. J., Nov. 15—Miss Lillian Ann Harner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Harner of Jersey City, and niece of Blake Grover, City Clerk of Dixon, Ill., last night became the bride of Everett A. Rudloff, son of Charles H. Rudloff and Mrs. Viola A. Rudloff of Elmhurst, N. J., at the St. Paul's Episcopal church, Jersey City, which was crowded to capacity. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Edgar L. Cook, Rector of the church, following solos sung by Miss Lottie Madden, well-known radio artist, frequently heard with the Goldman Band in New York City.

Period Program Was A Delightful Event

The period program in the concert sponsored by the members of the Philharmonic Society of Dixon at the Brinton Memorial Masonic Temple, afforded the large audience present last evening, much pleasure, the artists for the evening being Josephine Lydston Seyl, soprano; who kindly donated her services, and Louise Evans who is a pianist. Both artists live in Chicago. Mrs. Seyl is a niece of Mrs. C. D. Anderson of this city.

Mrs. Dwight Chapman introduced the artists for the evening to the large and appreciative audience in a few gracious and explanatory sentences. The personnel of the Philharmonic Society is composed of girls, young music lovers of teen age, who formed the club for the study of things worth while in music and who in their entertainments will survive to bring before the public artists who will demonstrate the highest type of music and give programs accordingly. Mrs. Chapman's remarks were greeted with much applause and then Mesdames Seyl and Evans, in pink, with adorable white wigs, entered and from the stage at one end of the large attractive room, entertained their listeners with a most enjoyable program for two hours. Mrs. Seyl has delightful stage presence and poise and possesses a lovely soprano voice. Mrs. Evans accompanied her.

It will be seen, from the program that the first group of songs was in French, the third one of this group perhaps being the most pleasing to her listeners, although the ballad said to have been written by Marie Antoinette has a light and charming appeal.

The group of piano selections by Mrs. Evans which followed the first group of songs, gave much pleasure to her listeners, the first selection appealing to many as the most enjoyable, while the Minuet in A, was also beautifully rendered.

The group of English songs was admirably given by Mrs. Seyl, with a bit of humor tucked within the ballad "When Love Is Kind." Mrs. Seyl has the true dramatic instinct and interprets to her audience just the sentiment she would have them feel.

Mrs. Evans again charmed her audience with a group of piano numbers, and in her rendition of the adagio movement from Beethoven's Moonlight Sonata, was found the gem of her program for the evening. She played it with true artistic interpretation.

In the last group of songs Mrs. Seyl again won much applause and as she was leaving the platform after the last number some of the girls of the Philharmonic Society presented her with a bouquet of beautiful chrysanthemums, thus expressing the pleasure of all in the program for the evening.

Following is the program:

WILL LIKE U. S. TO RATIFY KELLOGG TREATY
 Moline, Ill., Nov. 15—(AP)—Failure of the United States to ratify the Kellogg Multilateral Treaty "would set back the cause of peace fifty years," Mrs. James A. Morrison, former president, told delegates to the Illinois League of Women voters in convention here today.

"Prompt ratification on our part," said Mrs. Morrison, "will clear the decks for the building of peace and bring us vastly nearer the goal of which mankind has dreamed for ages."

"As Monsieur Briand remarked declaring peace was one thing and organizing it was another and it is obvious that the Treaty is merely the preliminary to the setting up of machinery of arbitration and conciliation which will cover every conceivable situation. It should make the building of such machinery much easier and lend great impetus towards reductions of armament."

"It has been subjected to a good deal of cynical comment on the part of the people who feel that a statement of good intentions is unimportant, but while realizing perfectly that it has not ended war, it seems a serious mistake to under-estimate what has been accomplished."

"For the first time in history, the nations have recognized war as an international crime instead of the supreme glory. In the long process of abolishing an outworn institution, we must first state that it is no longer endurable and then devise alternatives. That road lies ahead and we are making progress on it."

"I think we have a reason to be proud and glad that the nations have seen fit to define the innumerable institution of war for the curse it is. The Treaty comes up before the Senate for ratification in December and it is of the utmost importance that we ratify promptly and without formal reservations which will destroy the whole thing. If once more we repudiate the proposals we ourselves have brought to Europe, we will set back the cause of peace by fifty years. The feeling of the countries is very clear on this point. It seems inconceivable that the Senate will not act favorably. In the League of Nations there was the danger that American troops might be called out in quarrels not their own—which is why we are not in the League, but no such danger can possibly exist in an agreement never to go to war."

RADIO AND THE PRINTED PAGE.

Some highly pertinent remarks on radio advertising, voiced by the widely-known advertising man, Thomas F. Logan, in a speech at Detroit, are reprinted in a little booklet and are worth considerable thought.

"Despite the great reliance we place on broadcasting as a new sales force in American business, we would not recommend to any advertiser that he place all or a large proportion of his advertising expenditure in the new medium," says Mr. Logan. "Broadcasting, for the present at least, must be an adjunct to printed salesmanship—and it is a mighty powerful adjunct."

After pointing out that newspapers, magazines, billboards and radio have each a definite place in the advertising scheme, Mr. Logan says of the radio:

"I am willing to risk my reputation as a prophet in saying that while it is here to stay, it will not and cannot replace the printed page. It is an extension of sales energy—a rounding out process, rather than a substitute. The printed page is the firm foundation of all profitable advertising."

Mr. Logan, one of the greatest advertising specialists in the country, does not see the conflict between the two types of advertising that some others have seen. He sees them as complementary; each one aiding and assisting the other.

THE NEW MONEY.

During the last year the treasury department has been arranging to issue paper money in new size and designs. The public always shows keen interest in a new coin, but paper money has been used in so many different forms that it comes and goes without much public attention. More interest will be shown in new issues this time, because of the change in dimensions and the general departure from present style of printing.

Changing of plates and machinery involves much work and requires a corresponding amount of time, which accounts for the period elapsing between the announcement of currency reform and appearance of the new paper.

Economy and efficiency are dictating the change. When coin was used for most of our exchange, the cost of circulation of paper currency was not so great. Now that paper money is used almost exclusively in denomination of $1 and more, production of bills has become an important item of expense. It is estimated that millions of dollars will be saved in material used by making the currency smaller. Material is one item and the fact that twelve bills can be printed by an impression that now creates only eight is another item.

New bills will be uniform except that each denomination will be conspicuously different. At present there are five different designs of $10 bills. Among the several series of bills in circulation are federal reserve notes, United States notes, gold certificates, silver certificates, and national bank currency. The different series resemble each other more than the different denominations.

There will be eleven denominations, each with a different portrait upon the front, and each with a different design on the back. The $1 bill will display a portrait of Washington and the $100 bill will display a likeness of Franklin.

The yellow back, which has marked the gold certificates, will disappear, and all issues will have green backs.

This is the first important change in currency in sixty years. Since the organization of the federal reserve bank the federal reserve notes have taken a large place in the medium of exchange, but they were printed the same size and after the same style of other currency.

THE TINYMITES

STORY by HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES by KNICK

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

"Ah, we are quite a happy four," sang Scooby. "Cause we're free once more. We're sailing on the ocean blue, and having lots of fun. We've left the big boat far behind, because the captain wasn't kind." Then Coppy broke right in and said, "Oh, think what we have done."

"I do not like to make a fuss, but what will children think of us for sneaking off with this small boat? It isn't our, you know. I'm almost sorry that we left, 'cause we can be accused of theft. I think back to the great big ship is where we ought to go."

"Oh, no!" cried Scooby. "You are wrong! We leave all things where they belong, except when we have paid for them. So there's no need to fret. Today our captain friend will find that I left several bills behind. I paid more for this little boat than he'd expect to get."

"Hurray! Hurray!" one Tiny said.

"We must admit you used your head. And now that everything's all right, I think I'll take a snooze. If one of us will sit and row, the other three can safely go to sleep. Good rest is one thing that we really shouldn't lose."

They all took turns, and through the night the little boat moved on all right. Then morning came and everyone was shortly wide awake. "Oh look," cried Coppy. "Here's a treat. I found some canvas 'neath this seat. If it is plenty big enough, a sail we ought to make."

They spread it out and Coppy said, "It's big enough. Let's go ahead. An oar will answer as a mast." The oar was set up straight. And then the canvas, fastened tight, made them a sail that seemed just right. So shortly they were sailing on at quite a speedy gait.

(The Tinymites are lifted into the air in the next story.)

Running Ears

By C. F. Yerger, M. D.
Chicago, Illinois

(This series of articles is prepared under the direction of the Gorgas Memorial, which is organized to perpetuate the life work of the late Major-General Gorgas in preventing unnecessary illness. Headquarters of the Gorgas Memorial are at 1331 G Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.)

A running ear is a common expression used to designate a chronic suppuration of the middle ear and is usually a sequel to a neglected or an improperly treated acute suppurative middle ear disease. It is prone to develop in the very severe and rapidly destructive infections of the middle ear associated with measles or scarlet fever. It is also seen in cases of malnutrition, anemia, tuberculosis, syphilis and diabetes.

The chief symptoms are a chronic discharge of pus from the middle ear, deafness and tinnitus (ringing in the ear). The discharge of pus from the ear may be continuous from two months to as long as the patient lives; or it may be intermittent, with alternating periods of stoppage and relapse. The discharge is fetid when there is necrosis or destruction of bone. It is in these cases that complications are most frequent. The deafness varies in amount depending upon the duration of the disease and the degree of destruction of the auditory apparatus. The tinnitus or head noise may be mild or severe and of high or low pitch. Pain may be present when there is retention of pus in the middle ear due to obstructed drainage from granulations, polyp or accumulations of skin in the middle ear. Other symptoms develop when complications occur, such as mastoiditis, septic clotting of the blood with the formation of pus in the large venous sinus adjacent to the mastoid bone, infection of the meninges and extracranial abscess, infection of the brain (brain abscess), involvement of the internal ear (labyrinthitis), and paralysis of the face.

Due to the close proximity of the middle ear to the cranial structures, at times only separated by a thin plate of bone not thicker than paper, intracranial complications may develop. A chronic discharging ear is always a potential danger to the patient, and hangs like the sword of Damocles over his head, a menace that without any warning may develop into a fatal intracranial complication. It is these complications that make the possessor of a chronic running ear a liability. Life insurance companies recognize this and will not insure, or if they do insure make the cost of insurance equal to the added risk.

The preventive treatment should begin in childhood because it is during this period that most of these cases develop. Children, with enlarged tonsils and adenoids, who have ear ache, head colds or sore throats, should have their tonsils and adenoids removed. Every child with an ear ache should be examined immediately by a physician, in order to ascertain if there is a suppurative inflammation of the middle ear present. If there is, the drum membrane should be incised at once, without waiting for a spontaneous

Do you enjoy your food?

IF you do not enjoy your food it is a true sign that you are losing your appetite. And when your appetite is "gone" it means you haven't the resistance to ward off disease. Loss of appetite is only a symptom. General weakness pervades the entire body. There is no desire to work or play.

Rich, red, blood builds and sustains

Your physician will tell you that lowered vitality is the result of an insufficient supply of red blood cells—those vitalizing elements in the blood that nourish and sustain the body.

When you get your red blood cells back up to normal, that sluggish, let-down feeling, loss of appetite, rheumatism, boils, pimples, and skin troubles disappear. You get hungry again; sleep soundly; solid flesh takes the place of that which was once flabby. You feel strong; and your nerves become steady.

rupture to occur, thereby to drain the infected fluid from the middle ear. This will prevent the possibility of a chronic running ear or some resultant complication, since it is a well established clinical fact that the longer pus is retained in the middle ear without drainage and under pressure, the more the liability of severe destruction in the middle ear.

If all acute suppurative middle ear diseases could be treated early and efficiently it would reduce to a minimum the occurrence of running ears. The longer the proper treatment is neglected, the more difficult it is to stop the discharge and the more the permanent damage to the hearing apparatus.

The treatment of chronic running ear in the uncomplicated case is first medical over a period of three to six months. If no results are obtained, a simple or a radical mastoid operation will have to be performed to remove as much of the necrotic bone as possible. In a small per cent of the radically operated cases it is sometimes impossible to cure the discharge permanently, but the operation provides for free drainage to the extent that it will remove the danger of the occurrence of some fatal intracranial complication.

NATIONAL GRANGE OUTLINES SCHEME FOR FARM RELIEF

Master of Organization
Says McNary-Haugen
Measure is Dead

Washington, Nov. 12— (AP)—For its sixty-second annual convention, the National Grange, patrons of husbandry, returned today to the city of its birth. In contrast with the 23 members who attended the organization's first general meeting it was estimated that more than 5,000 delegates would be in attendance before the present convention reaches its conclusion late next week.

The program for the opening session included a speech of welcome by Secretary Jardine of the Agriculture Department, an address by Louis J. Taber, the organization's national master, and reports from officers.

Friday, the delegates will be received at the White House by President Coolidge and that evening, Mr. Coolidge will address the convention at Washington Auditorium.

The National Grange was organized here in 1867 in the office of William Saunders, an official of the old Bureau of Agriculture. A plaque marking the spot where the building stood is expected to be the object of many pilgrimages during the convention.

Frames Program

A national farm policy was laid down today by Taber, Master of the Grange, in opening the convention with an address in which he asserted that the McNary-Haugen plan of farm relief is dead and urged the adoption of the export debenture method, which the Grange has supported in the past.

Mr. Taber's agricultural program was divided into five sections. It included:

"Wider organization of the farmer's themselves for improvement purposes; better balanced crop production in all sections; extensive research to find industrial uses for surplus farm products.

"Increased duties on many agricultural imports; broadened powers of the tariff commission; equality for the farmer on a level with other producers.

"Application to agriculture of the same type of adjustments of the tariff laws as have been necessary to accommodate industry. Specifically the use of the export debenture plan as a means of making the tariff effective on those staple farm crops of which we still produce a surplus.

"Replace present haphazard, careless dumping methods with business-like distribution, aided by the extension of cooperative marketing; but with the control always in the hands of the farmer's themselves.

"Opposing new irrigation and reclamation projects until evidences appear of actual need for food purposes. Encouragement of preservation and extension of forest and recreation areas, including the reforestation of certain farm lands."

Taber expressed strong opposition to what he termed "corporation farming" which he said involved large investments of capital, mass production and the substitution of hired farm labor for owner-operators.

"Destroy the independent farm unit," he said, "and we have destroyed the backbone of American agriculture."

Building Activity Moving on Upgrade

Chicago —(AP)—Reversing last year's downward movement, building in 43 Illinois centers continued to increase during October, with a pick-up of 36.8 per cent, Sidney W. Wilcox, chief of the bureau of labor statistics, reported today in his monthly industrial survey.

Chicago led the upswing with permits totaling $29,039,127.

The total estimated cost of building in Illinois during the first 10 months of 1928 is $43,527,000 less than in 1927 when permits for the construction of $399,695,000 of building were issued in 28 cities. A comparison with 1927 shows that Chicago has spent less money in building than a year ago.

According to reports from a representative group of contractors employment in the building industry is now 1 percent greater than a month ago. Structural steel shops also report a more active market.

With the exception of a $9,000,000 loop project, the most interesting change in Chicago's building total is a $6,131,000 increase in residential construction which will provide for 100 more families than were provided for in last month's program. Permits have also been issued for the construction of 16 factories costing $556,000 and 7 office buildings costing $353,000.

Of the reporting downstate centers, Peoria is most active with permits for $667,510, $400,000 of which is to be used for the construction of store buildings. Rockford's total of $451,126 is less than last month, although it is the second largest figure reported by downstate centers. Springfield has increased its budget from $261,901 to $400,514, and in Bloomington building has been increased by $210,500. Danville and East St. Louis are also among the centers to report increases.

Someone had, in more or less of a business way, spoken of The Youth's Companion. And just the mention of its name—so far as business was concerned—broke up that meeting. But what fun those busy men had swapping recollections of the days when the arrival of The Youth's Companion was the high spot of the whole week.

Rare indeed are the pleasures that we remember so warmly over half a century of years. But The Youth's Companion is still among them.

Isn't there some boy or girl whom you would like to make happy with a gift subscription?

In its new enlarged and improved form as a monthly magazine, The Companion has more to offer its young readers than ever before—a full book-length novel complete in each issue; short stories and serials so thrilling they will never even suspect them of being a "good influence" or the "right kind of reading"—articles by outstanding men and women that will fire their young ambition—comments on current affairs—puzzles, poems, guides to the best in books and moving pictures—special departments for both boys and girls covering their own favorite activities.

You may give some boy or girl a truly fine gift by accepting the following offer:

1. The Youth's Companion, 12 big monthly numbers, and
2. Two extra numbers to new subscribers ordering within 30 days, and
3. A copy of "WE" in 12 colors, framing size 18x24 inches. All for only $2.

MAN AND WIFE IN REUNION ON PIER IN NEW YORK CITY

Were Passengers Aboard Ill-fated Vestris When It Sank

New York, Nov. 15—(AP)—A pretty auburn-haired woman who last saw her husband floundering in the sea as the steamship Vestris sank found him waiting at the pier when she landed today with 56 other survivors from the French tanker Myrland. Mrs. Cline Slaughter had learned of her husband's rescue by wireless. He recognized her despite her borrowed seaman's clothing, rushed over and embraced her. His husband landed yesterday from the rescue ship American Shipper.

Mrs. Slaughter, who is 21 years old, said she was the last woman to leave the stricken Vestris. When she left the liner she was wearing a new gown which she said had been transformed into a French creation by shrinkage.

Husband Gave Up Place

Her husband gave up his place in the lifeboat assigned to them to make room for two other women, Mrs. Slaughter said, and the boat was lowered with difficulty only after some tangled lines were cut away with axes. It was launched just before the Vestris went down.

Mrs. Slaughter said she fell out of the boat and was pulled under the water by the suction from the liner as it sank.

"It seemed as though I was under a long time," she said, "and when I finally bobbed up I saw my husband paddling a few yards away. Both of us were nearly exhausted."

Near them approached another lifeboat, in which was Second Officer Leslie Watson of the Vestris. When he saw them, she said, he jumped into the sea and swam towards her, but the lifeboat kept pulling away.

She said it was probably twenty minutes before Watson reached her side and that he supported her in the water for perhaps an hour, when he hailed a passing lifeboat and helped her into it.

Lay Exhausted in Boat

As she lay exhausted in the bottom of the boat, Mrs. Slaughter said she could hear whistling and cries of despair from the water, some of them apparently from women, but the boat did not stop to pick up any others. As they rowed along she said, she heard members of the boat crew say they were passing floating bodies.

Charges of negligence on the part of the master of the Vestris, voiced by other passengers landed yesterday, found no confirmation from Mrs. Slaughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Slaughter said that although their last address was Chicago, they had no permanent address in the United States. They were en route to Buenos Aires, where her husband had a position with the International Harvester Company.

NEWS of the CHURCHES

PROF. BALDWIN TO BE HERE

All lovers of good music will be interested to know that they are invited to listen to Prof. Baldwin at the First Presbyterian church on next Sunday evening, at 8:15. Prof. Baldwin has been here before and greatly pleased those who heard him. We hope for him a house full of interested listeners. An offering for Prof. Baldwin will be taken.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

The interest in the campaign continues to grow. Yesterday the attendance at the children's meeting was doubled. Mr. Kindig spoke on a Peanut, riveting the attention of the children from beginning to end. We are expecting a greater number again today. The evening service gave to us some pleasant surprises. Mr. Kindig played to us on the hand-organ. A male choir sang "Throw out the Life Line" while Mr. and Mrs. Kindig sang charmingly "The Telephone to Glory." The pastor's subject was "Love's Niagara." He said: "My text tonight is that wonderful verse, John 3-16. It is the Gospel in a nutshell. This message shows to us The Love of the Love of God. This love is the panacea to cure the world's ills, the power which inspires the love of saints, the soul to move the sinner from the haunts and habits of sin, the salt that preserves society from putrefaction, the soul in which Christian character is nourished. This love goes deeper than man's sin because it envelops it. It goes higher than God's Throne because it was the impelling power that made Him send Christ to save us. It is broader than Humanity's need. That love prompted Christ to feed human hunger in the desert. When He met disease He banished it. He gave back to the impotent their power to walk again. He quenched the soul's thirst. He even invaded the realm of death and released its captives. It is longer than eternity's chime. Mr. Spurgeon once asked in a deaf mute school, 'What is Eternity?' and the little chap wrote on the blackboard, 'The Life Time of God.' The salvation He provides is eternal in blessing, the life He gives is eternal in duration, the redemption He affords is eternal in its issues, the Love He shows is Eternal in its satisfaction.

The River of Love is found in the Son of God. He saw the whole world lost in the darkness of sin and He leaped over the battlements of Heaven into the Whirlpool of man's sin that He might redeem us. He confined Himself to the gorge of human limitation that He might rescue humanity. He was born in a manger and companioned with men in a human body for a third of a century, and went at last to Calvary Cross to procure to us peace by the blood of His cross.

The Pitcher of Love is our faith in Him which enables to receive the benefits of that love. "The word is nigh thee, even in thy mouth and in thy heart, that if thou shalt confess Jesus as Lord and believe in thine heart that God hath raised Him from the dead, thou shalt be saved." The draught of that love is our reception of his word which brings to us the life of God for our souls.

OBITUARY

CHRISTOPHER SMITH

(Contributed)

Christopher Smith was born March 8, 1852 in Somerset, Pa., and died at his home in Nelson, Ill., October 19, 1928, aged 76 years, 7 months and 11 days. He was the son of Adam and Magdalena Genck Smith. When a small boy he came with his parents and settled on the farm in Nelson township that has been his home for 60 years. About two years ago he came to Nelson to make his home with his daughter, Mrs. Max Genz.

On March 2, 1882 he was married to Anna Rubright, who passed away eight years ago, she being an invalid for 12 years. To this union were born six children, three of whom still survive. They are Millie, wife of Joseph Geiger of Rock Falls, Ill., wife of Max Genz of Nelson and Walter, also of Nelson.

The three children who preceded him in death were Clara, wife of Emil Janssen, died on January 14, 1925; Ruth, wife of John Stover, died Dec. 13, 1927 and Harry who died in infancy. He also leaves 11 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

He was the last of a family of eight children. Very early in life he united with the Lutheran church at Zion and was a faithful member as long as he was able to attend.

Mr. Smith had been in fairly good health for a man of his years and the morning of his death was about the house as usual. He took his usual morning walk to the postoffice and upon his return was stricken just as he reached the door of his home and lived about an hour. The cause of his death was heart trouble. He was conscious to the end.

Funeral services were held Oct. 22 at St. Paul's Lutheran church in Dixon. Rev. L. W. Woods of Sharon, Wis., assisted by Rev. L. W. Walter of Dixon, conducted the rites. Interment was in Pine Grove cemetery.

A precious one from us has gone, A voice we loved is stilled; A place is vacant in our home, Which never can be filled. God in His wisdom has recalled The boon his love had given And though the body slumbers here, The soul is safe in Heaven.

amount up to $100,000. Mrs. W. S. Frost of her daughter, Mrs. W. S. Frost after several years of declining health. She was born near Sublette August 31, 1855, the daughter of Frank and Agnes Colvin and was 73 years, 2 months and 11 days at the time of her departure. At the age of thirteen years, she united with the Baptist church at Sublette and was ever a firm believer in the Christian faith and power of prayer. Beginning her education in Sublette, she continued it in the Lee Center Academy, afterward teaching several terms in country schools. In June of 1883, she was united in marriage with Albert Z. Bodine and to this union three children were born: Mrs. Mary A. Starks of Los Angeles, Calif.; Leslie A. Bodine of Bowling Green, Va., and Mrs. Genevieve Frost of Lee Center, all of whom survive, together with five grandchildren, and three great grandchildren. Mr. Bodine died in 1914, and one granddaughter in 1921.

Mrs. Bodine was devoted to her home and family yet ever wishing to help in sickness and distress to alleviate suffering and sorrow. She especially loved little children and was never happier than when having one to care for. Literature, music and poetry were also sources of great pleasure to her one of her favorite poems being, "My Mind to Me My Kingdom Is." Her belief in the immortal life was expressed in the stanza:

"There is no death, the stars go down To rise upon some fairer shore And bright in Heaven's jeweled crown, They shine forever more."

National Hockey Loop Gets Underway Today

New York, Nov. 15—(AP)—With new faces to be seen on nearly every team, the 1928-29 season of the National Hockey League will get under way tonight.

At Montreal the Maroons and Canadiens will play the first game of their intra-city rivalry. Two greatly revamped tail-enders of last year, the Chicago Blackhawks, and the New York Americans will give their new teams a first test against Toronto and Ottawa.

The world's champion New York Rangers play their first game at Detroit. The trade which brought the Rangers John Ross Roach, one of the finest goalies in the league, from Toronto, as well as several other deals, have strengthened the New York team to a point where it is a favorite to walk off with most of the honors. Boston, trailing only the Rangers in the pre-season predictions, opens against Benny Leonard's Pittsburgh team, one of the unknowns of the league.

Stagg is Praised by Chicago Alumni

Chicago, Nov. 15—(AP)—As far as University of Chicago alumni are concerned, Amos Alonzo Stagg can coach football at their alma mater as long as he cares to.

"The Grand Old Man" of Big Ten football was the only one to receive compliments from the alumni at their annual banquet last night as they arranged the football team for its failure to win a single conference game this season. The school administration received criticism because of its high scholastic standing, 85, and the $300 tuition fee. John Schommer, end on the Chicago team in 1906, '07, and '08, one of the two men to win the maximum 12 "C's" at Chicago, and Big Ten football referee, was prolific in his praise of Stagg's ability and in criticism against the players and administration.

New Yorker Selected to Head Golf Assn.

New York, Nov. 15—(AP)—The nominating committee of the United States Golf Association has selected Findlay S. Douglas, New York, to succeed Melvin A. Traylor, Chicago, as president.

Harrison R. (Jimmy) Johnston, well known St. Paul golfer, will become a member of the executive committee.

THANKSGIVING IS END OF JAPAN'S CROWNING RITES

Ceremony is Witnessed by Emperor Hirohito
in Secret

BY GLENN BABB.
(Associated Press Correspondent.)
Kyoto, Japan, Nov. 14.—(AP)—The Daijo-Sai, or "Great Thanksgiving," always celebrated following the formal enthronement of an Emperor of Japan, began as dusk fell on Kyoto late today. Throughout tonight the newly enthroned Hirohito, as the 124th ruler in the line of the Heavily Sun dynasty, will be engaged in observance of the most solemn and awful rites of the primal racial religion of Japan, Shinto, acting as the high priest of the nation in communion with Gods who are believed to have given the Empire birth.

The Japanese enthronement as a whole constitutes the oldest state ceremonial surviving among modern nations, but by far the most ancient part of these observances is the "Great Thanksgiving," to most thoughtful and patriotic Japanese the culminating point of the "great ceremonies." Elsewhere in the enthronement ritual are borrowings from Chinese and other foreign cultures and usages, but in the Daijo-Sai is preserved intact, without alien contamination, the Japan of 2,000 years ago, a primitive community in which the first institutions of kingship and priesthood were taking form, uniting in the person of ruler-priest who was also considered divine.

The foreign envoys who participated in the earlier ceremonies did not attend the "Great Thanksgiving." None but the Emperor himself is witness to its most solemn moments. In the dead of the chill November night, alone, unseen, unheard, he offers to the gods of his people the first fruits of the first untainted harvest of his reign and intercedes with them for the fruitfulness of the land and the prosperity of the nation. This is the first "untainted" harvest, for last year's, grown while Hirohito was actually reigning, was sown and reaped during the year in which the nation was still mourning for his father, the late Emperor Taisho.

BATTLE AT IOWA

CITY FEATURE OF SPORTS PROGRAM

Badgers Making Ready for Hardest Battle of Their Season

Madison, Wis., Nov. 15.—(Special).—Ranked as one of the leading football teams in the country by virtue of their record to date, "Silent Glenn" Thistlethwaite's Badgers are making ready for their crucial game on Saturday with the title-bound Iowa eleven. The battle at Iowa City will be the greatest attraction on this week's card.

The Hawks rule a decided favorite on the past records of both teams in conference competition. Already Burt Ingwersen's great aggregation has met and defeated Minnesota, Ohio State and Chicago. It has been their habit to eliminate opponents whose ambitions were little short of championships.

Coach Thistlethwaite, whose tendency is always toward the pessimistic, has yet to assume an optimistic attitude concerning the present season. "Our boys are showing the effects of this gruelling schedule," stated Thistlethwaite Monday. "They are tired and badly bruised for there has been no breathing spell since early in October."

The Badgers have had a strenuous row to hoe. While most of their Big Ten friends have enjoyed a practice game or two, the Wisconsin gridders have been pitted against both Notre Dame and Alabama. And still the Cardinals must rise to greater heights in these last two games with Iowa and Minnesota.

The week's practice program for the important contest at Iowa City is not one that entails much scrimmaging or hard work. Thistlethwaite is drilling his boys late and long on perfecting old plays and mastering a few new formations. The line will be coached to halt the plunges of the bulky Indian, McLain, while the ends and tackles watch the freshmen backs impersonate Arml, Glassgow and the speedy Pape, who specializes in off tackle drives and end runs.

The performance of Wisconsin against the Maroons indicated that Thistlethwaite's charges are playing better ball as the season progresses. In 'Slim' Conry, 6 ft. 4 in. center, the Badgers have brought to light a pivot who will take a back seat to none other in the conference.

Capt. Rube Wagner is playing great ball at tackle, while Parks and Kresky have developed into the best pair of guards seen at Camp Randall in many years. "Stub" Allison's ends came into their own against the Stagmen Saturday. Wisconsin's wing play the balance of the year is certain to be a source of worry to their two remaining opponents.

News From Grid

Camps of Large Schools of West

BY PAUL R. MICKELSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
Chicago, Nov. 15.—(AP).—The race for Big Ten championship honors won't be ended by the Iowa-Wisconsin game Saturday if Minnesota and Michigan succeed in their ambitions to scramble the Conference standings. Only a victory Saturday and another November 24 can insure either Iowa or Wisconsin a clear claim to the championship. A defeat for either or both would allow Ohio and Illinois a chance to tie for the title.

Whether Iowa or Wisconsin wins, they face later stumbling blocks in Michigan and Minnesota. Iowa must meet Michigan's up-and-coming eleven, November 24, while Wisconsin faces a final game with its traditional rival, Minnesota, the same day. Twelve times since 1896, when the championship race became an annual prize, two or more teams have been deadlocked at the pinnacle of the percentage column.

The Iowa-Wisconsin game apparently will be straight football against forward passes. Wisconsin's passing game is likely to be unleashed early. Iowa will depend on straight smashes and flying wedge plays.

Both rivals worked until after dark last night and both appeared to be in their best form of the season.

The punting problem is worrying Coach Pat Page, who is attempting to whip his Indiana team into a stonewall to repel Northwestern. Louis Briner, who did the kicking two years ago before he injured his knee, has been shifted from guard to the backfield to take the place of Harrell, who has a bad leg.

Northwestern will send 29 men to Indiana tonight.

Coach Bob Zuppke is worrying about over-confidence again. With his Illinois eleven favored to rout Chicago without much effort, the "Flying Dutchman" is acting gloomy, warning his men that Coach Amos Alonzo Stagg and his men still have a great game in their systems.

Injuries have taken their toll of Chicago's team again, however, and its outlook for a single conference victory was dark. Rudy Levers, Stagg's only consistent fullback, was injured along with Burgess, another fast back, in last night's scrimmage. The Maroon varsity was so ineffective last night that Stagg took the players aside and drilled them on A-B-C tactics of the game.

With Wabash as the immediate problem and with several regulars out with injuries, Purdue hasn't started worrying about Indiana yet. The Wabash game Saturday will be the twenty-eighth between the schools.

KEARNS SINGS OLD STORY
Jack Kearns says he is through with the fight business as soon as Mickey Walker is washed up and the temptation is too great to resist to say that Kearns is about through now.

The little piece herewith is not about Walker but about Kearns. Men tire of a tricky business such as boxing is after they have been in it as long as Kearns and want to get out of it. Few are able to do it, however. Either they have to continue as a means of livelihood or the fascination of the business holds them.

Bill Gibson swore when Tunney retired that he was through with the fight business. After having thrown away several fortunes, Gib found himself with a roll big enough to keep him for life after he got his out of Tunney's two Dempsey shots.

But Tunney hardly had made his announcement when Gib was hot in the chase after Knute Hansen, the heavyweight, and when the contract squabbles are settled Bill probably will have the man.

BUT HE MAY MEAN IT
Kearns probably means what he says and if he retires he no doubt will stick to it for two reasons. He is the smartest manager in the modern history of the ring in two ways. He was smart in handling his fighters and he was smart in handling himself. He has plenty of money now and he can do just as any whim or fancy strikes him.

There is another thing about Kearns also. He has a vanity. Babe Ruth never will play with a minor league club and Kearns never will associate himself with a bum fighter. Champions are his only dish and there aren't any near champions running around loose.

WALLACE BACK AGAIN

Returning to the ring after an absence of almost a year, Billy Wallace made an impressive showing in beating Bruce Flowers. Wallace proved himself to be in good condition again and his timing was unusually good for a boy who had worked so little for a year.

But he seemed to have lost the power of a punch that made him one of the most dangerous hitters in the lightweight class several years ago. He hit Flowers with three crashing right hands in the first round and they didn't even shake up the negro. And Flowers is no Paulino. Wallace dumped him twice later in the fight but he couldn't keep him down.

Without a jaw breaking punch, however, Wallace can go quite a ways in the class now if he keeps himself in shape and doesn't have any more accidents because the division has very little class in it outside of the champion.

NICE VOTERS
California, at the recent elections, voted down an amendment aimed at kick boxing in the state. Massachusetts voters passed an amendment permitting Sunday baseball and football and Cleveland voted for a bond issue to build a huge stadium on the lake front in which the Cleveland Indians will play their games. It is possible that, with the same intelligent direction that was shown in the Massachusetts campaign, Pennsylvania may soon vote for Sunday baseball.

SPORT SLANTS

BY ALAN J. GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)
New York, Nov. 15.—(AP).—The skeptical gentlemen who see the dollar sign in most athletic moves and counter moves these days may be in for a shock when the celebrated phantom of Finland, Paavo Nurmi, returns to the United States in a few weeks for an indefinite visit.

The supposition that Paavo is coming over with definite intention of turning professional is scouted by Hugo Quist. And Hugo ought to know. He is perhaps closer to Nurmi than anyone in this country. He managed the "Peerless One's" famous tour here in 1925, spent some time with him in Finland and Amsterdam last summer and has been in communication with him occasionally since.

"Nurmi, so far as I know and I feel pretty sure of my ground, has not the slightest intention of turning pro. He probably will run in this country, a few races indoors, but his main idea is to make a concerted attack on outdoor distance records up to 25 kilometers next spring before ending his career as an amateur and as a runner."

This is Quist's statement of the case to The Associated Press.

To anyone who has followed Nurmi's career from the time he first sprang to Olympic fame in 1920 at Antwerp it is all quite logical. The famous Finn has always been intensely proud of his record as an amateur. When he was in this country three years ago there was much talk of profit-taking in the barstomping tour of Nurmi, but the actual facts are that Paavo turned down every commercial proposition offered him—offers that, if accepted, would have netted the Finn around $250,000 all told.

"Nurmi, so far as I know, has rejected every proposal to turn professional," says Quist. "He has had no dealings with Tex Rickard or any other promoter nor has he given me the least idea that he intends to quit amateur ranks."

"He wants to do some more running but that is not his chief purpose in coming here. He has taken an interest in a combined automobile and garage business in Finland and wants to build up some connections here. He also is much interested in continuing the development of track athletics in Finland and considers he has reached a point where he can do more good by coaching than competing."

"Nurmi, I think, will spend a good deal of time here visiting colleges and schools to add to his knowledge of athletic training and development."

"As for his own career I would not be surprised to see him quit next year and not attempt to continue in competition until the 1932 Olympics."

"Nurmi wants to make one more big splash in the record book, however, before he quits. He is confident that with adequate preparation he can break all outdoor records from two miles to 25 kilometers, also hang up a new one hour record. I think he would make a mistake to try too much outdoor racing again. It proved a severe strain for him three years ago, strong as he always has been."

Nice for 1920 and 1930
Fifteen members of the varsity squad at Florida this year are members of the sophomore class.

Their First Meeting
When Oklahoma Aggies played West Virginia this year, it was their first football meeting.

Ranks With the Best
Mid-western critics are practically unanimous in the opinion that Mike Labratovich, Wisconsin tackle who broke his leg in the Alabama game, is one of the best at that position in his conference.

Indiana to Lose Nine
Nine veterans of the Indiana team including those two good backs, Bennett and Harrell, will finish their football careers this year.

Wants American Wife
Paavo Nurmi, who says he is through with the track, plans a business trip to America soon and says he hopes to get an American wife on this jaunt.

To Build a Big Stadium
Athletic officials at Iowa will start work on a stadium capable of seating 80,000 within the next few months.

HOOVER PLANNING SPEECHES IN BIG CITIES ON JAUNT

Expected to Define His Policies Toward Latin Americans

BY JAMES L. WEST
(Associated Press Staff Writer)
Stanford University, Cal., Nov. 15—(AP)—Going to Latin America as a plenipotentiary of peace and good will, Herbert Hoover will interpret the character of his mission in addresses which he will deliver in each of the republics he will visit on his two months tour.

The President-elect already is outlining some of these speeches, the first of which may be made at Corinto, Nicaragua, now tentatively fixed as the first port of call after the battleship Maryland leaves San Pedro next Monday. He would be welcomed to Corinto by President Diaz.

May Outline Policy
A speech in this Central American republic would afford an opportunity for the President-elect of the United States to indicate the policy his administration would pursue in dealing with situations such as arose in Nicaragua and resulted in the landing of Marines to police the country.

The use of the Marines to supervise the election in Nicaragua has evoked much criticism both in the United States and in Latin America. Foremost among the critics in this country has been Senator Borah of Idaho, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations committee.

Without mentioning any specific cases of the use of armed forces for the protection of Americans abroad, President-elect Hoover, in one of the major speeches of his campaign, delivered at Boston, expressed the hope that such incidents would not arise again.

Tentative Schedule
With Corinto as the first port on the tentative schedule for the west coast voyage, the others are Balboa, Canal Zone; Callao, Peru and Valparaiso, Chile. Others may be added, however, as Colombia, Ecuador and Bolivia are urging upon the State Department that they be included in the good will trip.

With the possible exception of Santiago, Chile, Mr. Hoover plans to spend only 24 hours in each of the capitals.

The President-elect is to be accompanied on his tour by Mrs. Hoover and their son, Allan. The others in the official party will be Henry P. Fletcher, American Ambassador to Rome, representing the State Department; George Akerson, Secretary to Mr. Hoover; George Barr Baker of New York, a personal friend; Commander Augustin T. Bearegard, U. S. Naval Aid to the President-elect, and a force of four clerks and interpreters.

by nearly a dozen speakers at the eighth annual Middle West Foreign Trade and Merchant Marine Conference here November 19 and 20.

Speakers include: A. S. Hillyer, chief of the commercial intelligence division, bureau of foreign and domestic commerce; Eric T. King, chief of specialties division, bureau of foreign and domestic commerce; Paul Grady, secretary of the National Association of Wooden Box Manufacturers; Archibald J. Wolfe, editor, Export Trade and Finance; L. O. Bergh of New York city; P. E. O'Dell, vice-president and general manager of the Gulf, Mobile and Northern Railroad Company; Walter H. Ras-tall, machinery division, bureau of foreign and domestic commerce; Governor Ralph O. Brewster of Maine; H. G. Moebius, export manager of Newport Rolling Mills Company; and Dr. R. S. MacElwaine, commissioner of the bureau of port development, Charleston, S. C.

Springfield—(AP)—A new light in which to regard the danger of smallpox—as a menace to pre-holiday shopping—was presented for the consideration of merchants in Illinois cities by Dr. Isaac Rawlings, state health director.

Pointing out the infection starts its seasonal upward climb just preceding the holidays, Dr. Rawlings said that this year, with 60 cases reported in the state, in the last four weeks, history is set to repeat itself. At this time last year only 39 cases had been reported.

Dr. Rawlings declared that only three of four cities in Illinois outside Chicago are sufficiently protected by vaccination to prevent epidemic outbreaks.

"Automobiles," he said, "not only make it easy to expose a large number of people to a single case, but make possible a wider shopping range for rural people so that communities harboring the pox are more apt to be avoided."

Lebanon—(AP)—Although McKendree College is one of the smallest in the Little 19, its grid team is making a showing comparable to the best in the conference. At present the Purple are tied for the leadership with two victories, no defeats and no losses.

The one big day toward which the Bear Cats have their eyes turned is November 17, when they face Bradley at Peoria, in their third conference tilt. Should the Filley-men win this battle, they expect to lay claim to the 1928 conference football crown.

At present the Filley-men are in splendid shape without an injury on the line-up. Only one man is out of the squad, Lowery, substitute lineman, because of hurts. All others are in condition.

Coach Glen Filley is highly optimistic as to the outcome of the future games. His green team has been whipped into an excellent grid machine through his persistent and tireless efforts.

Resume Oil Drilling in Oklahoma Fields
Shawnee, Okla., Nov. 15—(AP)—The clank and screech of oil-drilling machinery today broke the stillness that has hung over the Little River bottoms as drilling, long halted in the Maud and Mission pools of the Greater Seminole oil field, was resumed at midnight with a rush at the termination of a drastic drilling restriction agreement. Oil men estimated that probably eighty new wells had been "spudded in."

The scene at midnight was not greatly unlike the zero hour of 1893, which saw nearly 5,000,000 acres of fertile prairie populated by upwards of 50,000 homesteaders in less than a day.

Scattered over a ten mile "front" that straggles along the Little River bottoms, upwards of a hundred locations had been staked out and officially listed, ready for the scramble after "the pay," but rig timbers were not available for some, machinery was missing on other locations, and there were some drillers who proposed to withhold their activities at this time.

The restriction agreement, lifted today, was put into effect in the two pools two years ago when other fields of the greater Seminole area were running at their peak, and overproduction of crude was threatened.

THE GLY-CAS MAN.

Dixon, said just recently while talking with the Gly-Cas Man who was at the Campbell White Cross Pharmacy. "There seemed to be a weight in the small of my back and sharp, piercing pains would extend to my shoulders and even down into my limbs," continued Mrs. Williams. "I also had dizzy spells and frequently a feeling of weakness would come over me. I realized that I was slowly but surely getting in a worse condition."

"Continuing to hear recommendations for Gly-Cas from persons I knew, I decided to try the medicine and I am indeed grateful for the excellent benefits I have now received. Gly-Cas has actually taken that terrible aching and those piercing pains from my back and limbs. The dizziness and weak spells have all been ended, too. In short, the pains that were causing my suffering have been eliminated."

"Gly-Cas has given me such satisfaction that I can endorse it above all other medicines. It has truly made me feel like a new person."

Will Have Part in Conference at Sterling Elks' Club

Sterling, Nov. 15—The district meeting of the Y. M. C. A. secretaries, presidents and other officials, as well as active members who care to attend, will be held this evening at the Elks club.

There will be a dinner at 6:30 o'clock, which will be followed by addresses by several state officials and others from Chicago and short talks by visiting Y officials from several cities in the district. Up to this morning 45 reservations had been made by out of town Y workers and 20 by local members of the association. It is expected that 70 or more will attend the dinner and meeting.

Preempt will send the largest delegation, 14 having made reservations from that city, including a male quartet that will provide special music for the occasion. Moline will send 11, Rock Island 4, Dixon 5, Streator 5, and there will be representatives from the associations in Belvidere, Monmouth and Galesburg and other cities. There are 13 associations in this Y. M. C. A. district, but those in Elgin, Joliet and Kewanee will not be represented at the meeting here.

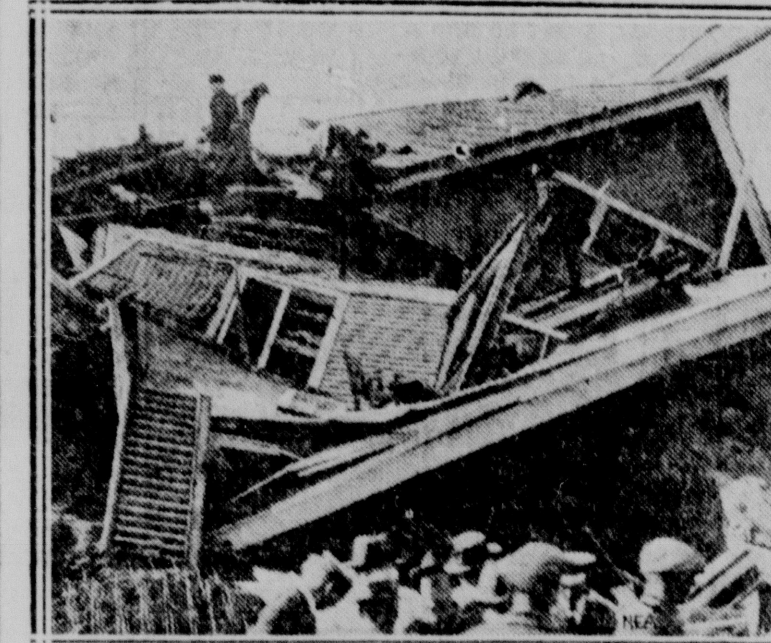

State Secretary Frank Hathaway of Chicago, will be the chief speaker at the district meeting. A. R. Freeman, member of the state Y. M. C. A. staff in the boys' department, R. W. Cooke of the Chicago Y. M. C. A. and R. A. Leake of China, member of the national committee, will also be here and will bring messages of interest to those who attend the meeting.

It was hoped that the president of the Y. M. C. A. college in Chicago would be one of the speakers, but he will be prevented from coming. The speakers on the program are all men of prominence in Y. M. C. A. affairs and the district meeting for northwestern Illinois promises to be one of the best held in the state this season.

Gas Blast Wrecks Home—9 Hurt

Nine persons were injured, three possibly fatally, when the home pictured above, in Cincinnati, was wrecked by a gas explosion. Two men were testing gas after a main had been changed in the house. Because the grade of the street had been changed, it was necessary to lower the main entering the house. A pilot light in the basement had been lighted to test the supply when the explosion occurred.

Fifteen Heroes Die in Attempted Rescue

Rye, Essex, Eng., Nov. 15—(AP)—All fifteen of the crew of a lifeboat sent out by the station were drowned today in a tempestuous sea at Jura's Gap when the boat overturned while proceeding to a wreck off the coast.

The lifeboat was launched at 5 o'clock this morning despite the heavy seas in response to calls for help from the small steamer Alice, of Riga, in distress near Dungeness, whose crew was rescued later by the German steamer Smyrna.

The bodies of ten of the lifeboat's crew were washed ashore during the day.

Vesuvius Following Etna in Eruptions

Naples, Nov. 15—(AP)—As the outpouring of molten lava from Mount Etna continued to diminish today, Mount Vesuvius became active.

Incandescent matter was being thrown out from a small orifice at the base of the central cone from which it spouted last August.

The spectacle was interesting tourists and scientists but the population of the vicinity was not enthusiastic.

Grange Masters Hear Many Reports Today

Washington, Nov. 15—(AP)—National Grange Masters in convention here today listened to a number of reports from local groups which viewed the agricultural outlook in a pessimistic light.

James T. Phillips, Master of the Missouri Grange, said "the depressed condition of our farmers keeps their attention fixed upon their economic circumstances" and slows up grange organization.

"There is no virtue in permitting ourselves to be deceived or kept in continued confusion by uncertain or vain attempts to make tariff laws that will overcome the disadvantage of having our markets controlled by a powerful group of speculators," he said.

"The day of the self-contained farm, existing on its own production, is definitely past. Competition and speculation in the use and ownership of land have raised the price beyond the ability to make it pay, and the farmer having his fixed charges such as interest, rents and taxes based upon the highest speculative price, is constantly losing in the game of life."

Lava was pouring from the fissures of the main crater which sent out tongues of flames into the Valley of the Inferno last August.

The spectacle was interesting tourists and scientists but the population of the vicinity was not enthusiastic.

BUY ADVERTISING AT HOME

Plea of Postmaster Moyer to Dixon Merchants

Postmaster John E. Moyer has sent the following letter to Dixon business men, which is self-explanatory:

"One thing in connection with advertising seems to be lost sight of by many of the merchants of Dixon, and that is The Post Office. The Post Office is the medium through which much advertising is disseminated. The Post Office is a local institution. It is yours, it belongs to the people. We are all interested in its growth, and in that connection should do everything we can to promote that feature."

"Our merchants preach the gospel of 'buy at home,' but they overlook that fact when they buy advertising away from home, and by that I mean the kind which is priced to them including postage, they do not practice the 'Golden Rule.'"

"It is very possible that this part is not taken into consideration, and this letter is just to bring that feature to your notice, because in such cases your Post Office has all the work to do, and gets nothing for it, whereas if it is necessary to get advertising out of the city, or if it is supplied by some home office located in some other city, you can at least arrange with them that you furnish the postage, for you have to pay for it anyway."

"Please bear in mind that if your Post Office is to properly function, that is, have the help necessary to do the work as it should be done, we must show the Post Office Department by sales of postage and the amount of work performed that we need the help, but this we cannot do if our patrons permit their advertising or other mailings go out of our office on postage purchased elsewhere."

"Don't think in calling this matter to your attention that we wish to find fault, but we do think that our patrons should know that the Post Office cannot make the proper showing from our merchants purchase postage from any outside source."

"Another thought comes to mind, and that is, say when you have in mind doing any special advertising, if you will first confer with the postmaster or his supervisors, they might be able to make your work much easier by giving you information relative to the best time of mailing, and suggest the type or form of mailing which would best suit your purpose, for we can issue you special permit, or sell you certain issues of stamps pre-cancelled."

"We wish to assure you of our desire to be of help to you at anytime, as you can determine by giving us the opportunity to show you."

The California Fish and Game commission is urging legal protection for the horned owl, only one of 21 species found in the state not so protected.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

D. 1928, at the hour of two o'clock in the afternoon, at the North door of the Court House in the City of Dixon, in Lee County, Illinois, sell at public auction, for cash in hand, to the highest and best bidder, to satisfy an indebtedness adjudged and decreed to be due to the complainant in the sum of ONE THOUSAND FOUR HUNDRED THIRTY-NINE DOLLARS AND TEN CENTS, ($1,439.10), together with interest thereon, and also the costs of said suit and procedure, including solicitor's fees, all and singular, the following described premises and real estate in said decree mentioned, situated in the County of Lee, and State of Illinois, or so much thereof as shall be sufficient to satisfy said decree.

Next day they interview the producer who is under obligation to accept, and he takes Jerry on. Her first rehearsal is a hard trial, but she is befriended by EVELYN STARR. Alester wonders if he has needed victory in helping put her on the stage.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXVII

ALESTER'S first doubt of the success of his plan to put Jerry under obligation to him grew into a disquieting conviction during the three weeks she was rehearsing. His own fear of having put her farther beyond his reach inspired the feeling that he had made a mistake. And as his conquest of her seemed to be reaching the status of a dream he became more enamored of her than ever.

The lightness in which he had held her in his mind vanished—she became even more desirable, a really important person in his life. But marriage!

He had always taken it for granted that Mrs. Alester Carstairs would be a girl from his own set, a smart, finishing school product, one who could do his social shining for him while he followed other pursuits more pleasurable to him.

Jerry—beautiful, alluring Jerry—she would be utterly lost among his crowd. He thought of her at the country club; thought of her old-fashioned ideas about conduct; wondered what would happen if some beau in his cups tried to kiss her.

A girl as attractive as Jerry couldn't hope to escape the attentions of men who had been encouraged by boyish good looks and neglected wives to make love to them. Alester told himself cynically. Jerry would expect the man she married to protect her.

Think of a girl like that trying to stand on equal terms with women who sought trouble as a thrill, who knew how, when and where to let men kiss them without creating an eternal triangle!

THIS HAS HAPPENED

Fate introduces JERRY RAY to ALESTER CARSTAIRS when he crashes his airplane into the camp she is sharing with her roommate. She is startled, but his pilot, DAN HARVEY, but Alester is struck with her beauty and shows her attention.

Unable to buy a gown for a party he has invited her to, Jerry yields to the temptation to take one from the store—intending to slip it back next day. When they found her with a "dry dog" she is angry, but Jerry admits too much. A roving dancing partner throws her into the pool to revive her. Dan appears to help her home, but Alester takes her.

Jerry is discharged from the store when she confesses about the dress. She seeks another job, and is surprised one evening when Dan calls. He proposes and she tells him she does not believe in love. He is going to marry money. He leaves after trying to persuade her to marry him.

Alester takes Jerry for a drive and goes to the deserted camp where he makes advances which she repulses. Dan happens along and, under cover of his presence, Jerry forces Alester to take her home. He is contrite and when she says she lost her job on his account, promises to help get her new one.

Next day they interview the producer who is under obligation to accept, and he takes Jerry on. Her first rehearsal is a hard trial, but she is befriended by EVELYN STARR. Alester wonders if he has needed victory in helping put her on the stage.

HOOVER IS NOT AS DEVOID OF HUMOR AS HAS BEEN SAID

These Little Anecdotes
Proof That He Enjoys
a Little Joke

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

Washington — To get a complete understanding of a famous man you must read the anecdotes that have clustered about him during his public career.

Herbert Hoover is not, just now, the subject of as many little stories as he undoubtedly will be a year later. But even so there is a fairly sizable collection of yarns, humorous and otherwise, which have him as the central figure. Since they are interesting and afford valuable sidelights on the character of America's next president, some of them are recounted here.

First of all, there is Hoover's own favorite—a story that concerns a war time crossing of the English channel on a boat which, as usual, was menaced by mines and submarines. Hoover was accustomed to square accounts with the steward at the end of the voyage, but on this occasion the steward came to him as the boat left the dock and said:

"I'm sorry, sir, but we may be sunk at any moment, so I must collect after each meal."

"Every time I think of that story it seems funnier," says Hoover.

Then there is the story, quite widely known, about something that happened during the Mississippi flood relief work. Hoover was stopping at an ancient hotel in a small southern town. As he ordered his meal, he told the old colored waiter to bring him his coffee without cream. The waiter hesitated a moment, and then said:

"Sorry, boss, Ah can't give you no coffee without cream because we ain't got no cream—but Ah can give you coffee without milk!"

Although Hoover is not known as a humorist of the Lincoln type, he has a certain dry sense of humor. A reporter entered his office a few months ago and found Hoover puffing on a cigar.

"Some of the politicians say you never smoked a cigar in your life," said the reporter.

Hoover studied his cigar for a moment.

"Well," he replied, at length, "maybe they're right."

The Mississippi flood relief work brings another:

One night, Hoover says, he asked his assistant, George Akerson, to telephone a certain town up the river and see whether the flood had reached it yet. Akerson got the call through but raised only a man who was nearly stone deaf.

"Any water there?" asked Akerson.

"Can't hear you," replied the man at the other end of the wire.

"Mr. Hoover wants to know if your main street is under water."

"Can't hear you."

Akerson fairly screamed the words into the telephone. They had no effect. Then, after a moment, the voice at the other end of the line said:

"Mister, if you'll hold on here a few minutes I'll get out my skiff and row over to the co'house and bring somebody that can hear better."

It doubtless will disturb somebody, to learn that Hoover occasionally uses such cuss words as "hell," for all his Quakerisms. The incident wherein he told a German baron, associated with him in food relief after the war, to "go to hell," is fairly well known. Earl Reeves, a Hoover biographer, gives another. Shortly after the war someone found Hoover pacing his office floor restlessly, and asked him what he was doing.

"I'm trying to keep the allies out of Uncle Sam's pockets," said Hoover, "and it's a hell of a job."

Some of the anecdotes of Hoover's boyhood are fairly well known.

There is, for instance, the story of the time that creditors of Hoover's Uncle John's land company held an indignation meeting at the company office. When they became angry and abusive, young Herbert jumped up and turned out the lights, forcing them to disperse.

"They were only running up the gas bill," he said, "and there was no use in that kind of talk."

When a boy in West Branch, Hoover once told a playmate that he believed in God and heaven, but not in hell.

"What would you do with the sinners?" asked the playmate.

"Send them to heaven," said little Herbert.

"What's the use of burning them all up?"

His hatred of waste apparently began early in life.

Many years ago, when Hoover was working as disbursement officer for the Geological Survey in the Rockies and was trying to save from his $45 a month salary enough money to help him return to college in the fall, a horse furnished his party by the government died. Hoover knew that if he could not properly explain the animal's demise he would be assessed $110. So, after much thought, he wrote the comptroller general that the animal had tried to scratch its head with a hind leg and in the effort had broken its neck. The story failed to go over; the comptroller general doubted that any horse anywhere would dream of trying such a thing. But to this day Hoover believes he would have been all right if he had simply written that the horse died of a broken neck, and had not tried to explain how it had been broken.

Hoover greatly enjoys motoring, and if left alone is a good driver. But if he gets to talking to someone else in the front seat he forgets about the automobile, and either drives it at a snail's pace or at a race track speed, depending on the tempo of the conversation. For this reason the rest of the family does not care greatly about having him drive.

Those are a few of the Hoover anecdotes. A year from now, when he has been in the White House for a time, there undoubtedly will be many more. Look at the way anecdotes about Calvin Coolidge sprang up after he became president.

CORN CROP WILL BE BIGGER THAN IT WAS IN 1927

Average Increase Will be Eight Bushels to the Acre

Springfield, Ill.—(AP)—With an estimated yield of 38.8 bushels per acre, the Illinois corn crop this year will exceed that of last year by more than eight bushels per acre. It was reported in a survey of crops as of Nov. 1, by the state and federal departments of agriculture.

The survey was prepared by A. J. Surritt, U. S. agricultural statistician here. Favorable yields of soybeans and white potatoes are also reported and the quality of most crops was said to be up to the average or better. Clover seed and timothy seed production is less than usual due to moderate or light yields and reduced acreages. The tree fruit crops are about average.

In central and northern counties the crop situation is much more favorable than in the southern areas, which suffered from adverse early season conditions. A good oats crop is reported in southern counties, however.

Livestock Good

With the exception of some hog cholera, livestock is reported in good condition. Farm work made slow progress in October, being frequently interrupted by rains, but conditions were not such as to cause material spoilage of late crops remaining in the fields. Fall wheat is in favorable condition generally, with a liberal acreage planted, although not as large as the extremely heavy acreage of last year.

The average yield of corn per acre is 38.8 bushels, as compared to 30 bushels last year and the five year average of 35.3 bushels. The estimated state production is 374,614,000 bushels, as compared to 254,070,000 bushels last year and the five year average of 320,656,000 bushels. Of this amount, 83 per cent is reported of merchantable quality, while last year's merchantable corn was only 67 per cent of the total output. Reserves of old corn on Illinois farms is the lowest in years—reported at 2,795,000 as compared to 21,902,000 bushels a year ago.

Best Potato Crop.

The white potato yield in this state is the best in years, rated at 110 bushels an acre as compared with 64 bushels last year and the ten year average of 72 bushels. The quality is above average. The sweet potato yield is rated at 88 bushels per acre, as compared with 103 last year, and the state production is 1,078,000 bushels a year ago.

bushels against 1,030,000 a year ago. Apple production is estimated at 2,020,000 bushels against 4,450,000 in 1927. Commercial apples total 1,217,000 barrels as compared with 804,000 last year. Quality is above average. Pear production is rated at 590,000 bushels compared with 312,000 a year ago.

Soybeans are yielding well, with the state average reported at 16.5 bushels as compared with 13 bushels per acre in 1927. Cow-peas are a less favorable crop, with a drop from 9 to 8.5 bushels per acre. The clover yield of 1.3 bushels and the timothy seed average of 4.3 bushels per acre compares favorably with the ten year average, but the state production will be below average due to greatly reduced acreages.

"Chesterfield—! of course!"

Mild enough for anybody
... and yet they Satisfy*

*MILDNESS is not the whole story of a fine cigarette. Chesterfields are genuinely mild but they are something more. They stand out as the cigarettes that satisfy because they are made of high quality tobaccos; because they are blended and cross-blended in a way that can't be copied—and that blending produces a satisfying taste and fragrance.

They are "the mild cigarettes that satisfy."
